

Continuing Education for Trainers

Developing an International Peer to Peer Process

A Strategic Partnership for Exchange of Good Practice (2020-2023)

Methodical-Didactic Lab II: Holding the Void – Acting in Radical Uncertainty
May 4-7, 2022, in Kassel and online

World Café (Wednesday, May 4, 2022)

(Participant contributions summarized by Reem Mouawad and Christoph Rosenkranz)

Lecture 10: Intuitive Power of Vision

“What you have to do is to see through what lies on the surface, see right through it to the real state of affairs. If therefore you want to come to the point of being able to say something to him out of intuitive vision, what do you need for that? You need to tell yourself with courage and with energy — not just saying it at some particular moment, but carrying it continually in your consciousness, so that it determines the very quality and content of your consciousness: — “I can do it.””

Table 1 / Reflections in world café

Point and circle experience intuition
Dynamic consciousness
Finding the questions not the answers
Finding the becoming
Finding Courage
Finding trust
Move slowly and deepen
A dynamic movement
Increase consciousness
Read the quote backward
Fertile environment “it” can always be simpler
I can do it I CAN do it I can DO it I can do IT

Lecture 10: Courageous Consciousness (impulses of thoughts and will)

“Do not expect to find the development of the faculty you seek, by spinning out all manner of theories and thoughts. No, what you need to do is to maintain all the time this courageous consciousness, which develops quite simply of itself when once you have begun to fetch up from the depths of your soul what lies hidden there, buried (metaphorically speaking) beneath an accumulation of dust and rubbish.”

Table 2 / Reflections in world café

Courageous consciousness – intuition (not from the intellect down but upwards)
Striving up towards the light
Fertile classrooms (conditions are right) No swamp, no lotus (swamp is peat different from dust and rubbish - earthly biography, culture and history).

Supported by

Getting away from what works, what is possible between the poles, in this particular moment with all what is below Striving up towards the light Shift the focus from information to energy behind the concepts
Maintaining not just growth but holding the gesture, allowing the space for it to happen
Let it grow by itself

Lecture 10: Dancing

“Become a dancer, in the sense that Zarathustra was made a dancer! Live the truth with innermost joy!”

Table 3 / Reflections in world café

The social artist weaving dancing- live in the joy of trust
Truth- living in relation to reality, in a dynamic way
Lightness of being
Dance – moving out of relationship to periphery- movement in the space around me
As a house coordinator we need to be dancers and find out what kind of dance would help them to be part of the house community
Listen to the music the
Everything is possible
We need courage to go to the future.
What is behind?
Interested to make a mistake
To teach I need to find my own inner student, be vulnerable and develop “courageous consciousness” with others
To be able to show your vulnerability
Joy with mistakes
Interest
Openness
Be empty to be new
Avoid controlling situations
In any moment
Expect changes
Be able to dance

Use and Dissemination

This summary is presented here as internal working material for the further development of the Strategic Partnership for the Exchange of Good Practice ‘Continuing Education for Trainers – Developing an International Peer-to-Peer Process’ (Peer2Peer-CET). It will be made available in the ‘Results’ section on the project website: <https://inclusivesocial.org/en/peer2peer-cet/>.

Project participants are invited to discuss these findings in their professional education centers, with faculty colleagues and with other stakeholders, and in preparation for Methodical-Didactic Lab III (April 26-29, 2023). It is not intended for distribution beyond the network of participating organizations.

Dr. Jan C. Goeschel
Project Manager
j.goeschel@inclusivesocial.org

Version December 1, 2022